

Wildflower Camp Foundation Receives $5,000 Grant as a Tribute to Jeff Baron

Thursday, June 29, 2017

The Wildflower Camp Foundation, headquartered in Wellesley, has received a $5,000 grant from the MassMutual Foundation as part of a national Community Service Award program.

WCF is one of 22 organizations nationally to receive an award. The MassMutual Foundation made the grant as a tribute to the volunteer efforts of Jeff Baron, a senior partner with Commonwealth Financial Group headquartered in Boston.

The mission of the Wildflower Camp Foundation is to help children who have lost a parent. They provide families with the gift of camp, opportunities and ongoing support services.

“With this grant from MassMutual, WCF will continue to focus on increasing the number of children and families we serve,” said Cyndi Jones, the organization’s founder and president. We will continue the expansion of our program into 2018 with a goal of serving 100 children (as well as siblings and family members impacted by the program by 2019.”
